New Defense Grant Asked

The President To Urge $5,000,000 More For Army And Navy

WASHINGTON, (U) — President Roosevelt asks congress today for $5,000,000 more for the army and navy.

These additional billions will be used to mechanize land forces, to start constructing more warships, and increase the military air forces to 25,000 planes.

The message was awaited as the senate prepared to approve Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Republican Col. Frank Knox to be Secretary of the Navy. Democratic leaders believed Knox would receive a larger "vote of confidence" than the 56 to 28 one given Republican Henry L. Stimson, the President's choice for Secretary of War, yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that the message on the new defense bill was ready.

Senate approval of Stimson's nomination came late yesterday after two days of debate. Republican and Democratic isolationists had charged that he was a "war monger."

Putting the Canal Zone on War Footing

In a sudden move to tighten Panama Canal defenses, 30,000 U. S. troops in the zone have been placed "on alert" in extensive maneuvers and mine fields have been laid at the canal entrances. Here is an air view of the vital Gatun Locks and a section of the canal as a protective squadron of navy planes roars overhead. Inset is Brig. Gen. Sanderford Jarman, commander of the zone's coast artillery, who has rushed his big railroad guns from the Pacific to the Atlantic side of the canal.

Windsor Shelved In Bahamas

Former British King Named Governor In Surprise Appointment

LONDON, (U) — Appointment of the Duke of Windsor as Governor-General of the Bahamas caused surprise, today because of previous reports that he desired to return to Britain.

It was understood that Major Edward Dudley (Frutty) Metcalf, the Duke's lifelong companion who is now in London, will not accompany him to the Bahamas.

The appointment was a surprise since it was understood here that everything had been prepared for the Duke and the Duchess to take up residence in England. They are now in Lisbon, Portugal, and it is believed that they will go directly to Nassau.

POPULACE DELIGHTED

NASSAU, The Bahamas, (U) — The inhabitants of the 29 islands, 661 islets, and 2,387 rocks forming the Bahama Islands, professed delight today that their former King, the Duke of Windsor, was going to be their governor general.

Those "in trade" expected him and his American-born Duchess, the former Wally Simpson, to do marvels for the tourist trade.

SEN. WHEELER PREDICTS "ANTI-WAR" PLANK IN PLATFORM

WASHINGTON, (U) — Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D. Mont., who has threatened to bolt his party this year if it becomes a "war party," predicted today that the democratic convention would write a strong anti-war plank into its platform.

Political observers immediately interpreted Wheeler's statement as an indication that adoption of such a plank would end recent threats of a third party in the November election with Wheeler as its candidate.

Wheeler said that he had not talked to "anyone in authority" of the democratic platform, but that he thought such a plank on foreign policy would be adopted.

CAMINO'S BASEBALLERS HURL CHALLENGE TO BARTLETTS

Henry Carsten Stirs Up A Hornet's Nest With Claim Lumberjacks In Softball League Can Beat County Seat Nine, Two Out Of Three

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," declared Bartlett baseball moguls Tuesday night in accepting a challenge offered by Henry Carsten, of Camino, for a three-game series between the Bartletts and a club from Camino for the benefit of the Red Cross War Relief Fund.

And so, tentative arrangements are under way, looking to starting a three-game series Sunday at Marcus P. Bennett Jr., Memorial Park, between the Caminoans, whose lineup will be built around the Lumberjack club in the softball league, and the Bartletts.

"We are going to meet with a committee from Camino tonight to iron out the details," announced Bartlett secretary Wallace M. Ripley. "One of the questions to be decided is which team Reginald Jackson will play for. If it is ruled that he goes to the Camino team, the Bartletts are in for plenty of trouble. Anyway, the Caminoans can, if they are a mind to, pick up a number of players who will help to form an aggregation that will be mighty hard to beat."

ANTI-AMERICAN MEETING HELD

Japs At Shanghai Ask Apology For Arrest Of 16 Gendarmes By Marines

SHANGHAI, (U) — Three thousand Japanese tonight demanded an apology before an international assemblage from Col. DeWitt Peck, U. S. Marines commandant here, for the arrest Sunday of 16 Japanese gendarmes.

The demands was embodied in a resolution passed at a mass meeting.

Official Japanese quarters joined in the general anti-American campaign but they refrained from attending the mass meeting, regarded as a promotion project for the Japanese newspaper Tairuku.

Speakers denounced the marines for "brutality" but the chairman said that any violent demonstration would not be desirable.

In the hall were placards saying "Down with those who disgrace the Imperial Army's honor" and "Take the International Settlement."

100 PLANES IN BRITISH RAIDS

London Claims One-Tenth Of Number Crashed; France Warned She Is Vanquished

LONDON, (U) — Germany sent her strongest air force of the war against the British Isles today and at least 10 machines were believed to have crashed into the English Channel off the southeast coast.

In the major battle of the day — off the southeast coast — at least 100 German planes, bombers escorted by fighters, were attacked by the British Spitfires and Hurricanes which arrived after the German planes had dropped a salvo of bombs on a convoy of ships. The attacked vessels joined in fire on the Germans.

FRANCE "VANQUISHED" — BERLIN, (U) — The German press significantly warned France today that her conversion to totalitarian principles had come too late to save her from the consequences of military defeat and that she must bear full responsibility for "her mistakes and crimes."

The unanimity with which German newspapers presented this viewpoint appeared to indicate a faithful reflection of the official German attitude.

Woodring Silent On Resignation

"Meddling Advisers Of Administration" Lashed In Banquet Speech

TOPEKA, Kas. (U) — Former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring's reference last night to "those provocative and meddling advisers of the administration" may be his bitterest comment on his departure from the cabinet, because he has said that he will never make public his letter of resignation.

"If reaction from my leaving the war department as a known non-interventionist has caused modification of some policies and sobered some of those provocative and meddling advisers of the administration who would strip our own defenses, then I regret that I had only one set of guts to sacrifice on the altar of public service," he declared.

Woodring spoke at a Chamber of Commerce welcoming banquet, his first public address since his resignation.

"I always have been, am now and expect to remain a non-interventionist," he said. "I am a strong advocate of keeping this country out of European wars."

"I hold it is not necessary for America to provoke antagonisms with any peoples because their nation chooses one form of government over another," he said, and added: "We naturally believe in, and are sympathetic to, the democracies of the world."

"But as they wage war," he said, "our aid should not be determined upon the issue of whether it be a defensive war to maintain their war-won empires or an offensive one to maintain an European balance of power. . . our aid should be generous and upon a strict basis of cash and carry, wheat, pork, arms and airplanes alike."

THE OLD HOME TOWN

MANSION OF FEAR

Marcia Howards meets a handsome young doctor, Larry Norton, on her way to Stipstown to join her father. Mr. Howards has bought a house, the large, forbidding looking Stips estate. Marcia dislikes the place immediately—it is heavy steel door and cell-like rooms. Then local carpenters refuse to work for Mr. Howards, and Larry suggests that it is the work of Sidney Allstone, a wealthy man who practically controls the town. One afternoon, Larry is mysteriously attacked. That night, he receives a guarded call from a stranger, Dr. Ashton Brown, who claims to be the son of the deceased Stips. Brown has been warned of a mystery surrounding the Stips house, and he persuades Larry to let him come to his house, disguised as Dr. Peter Macbride, an old friend. The next night, the Howards, Larry and Macbride dine with Allstone. Larry acts very strangely, and eventually has been poisoned. Mr. Howards, tired of all this, decides to move into the house at once. Marcia awakens next morning, and suddenly stares at her table—terrified.

CHAPTER XIV

MARCIA got out of bed and crept towards the table. Pinned down by an ordinary kitchen carving knife was a piece of brown wrapping paper marked with charcoal. The knife was sticky—stained crimson. Shivering, Marcia leaned over and read the roughly scrawled words:

"Miss, I don't like hurting a woman. Get yourself and your father out before it is too late."

For several seconds she stood there, staring at the gruesome warning. Then, trembling from cold as well as nerves, she closed the window and slipped on a flannel dressing gown. This normal act helped to steady her, and when she knocked at her father's door, she was quite calm.

Howards was already dressed, and he greeted her with cheerful good humor.

"Lazy bones," he laughed. "Hurry up. Breakfast is ready."

"Yes," said Marcia. "But I've had a visitor during the night, and he—" She faltered a little. "He left a most unpleasant calling card."

Howards followed her quickly to her room. There he let out an angry exclamation.

"This is a practical joke in bad taste," he said, pulling out the knife and picking up the paper.

"Practical joke?" echoed Marcia, astonished. "But—but—"

"One of your doctor friends may have had a hand in this—bribed a servant! Marcia, you're not frightened, are you?"

"Well," she stammered, "it isn't very nice to think that someone was in my room while I slept."

"I'll get a padlock for the door. My dear. Now, hurry and dress. I'll wait for you in the dining room."

When he had gone, Marcia sat down on the bed weakly. She couldn't understand her father's blustering manner. Shortly afterward, however, silently entering the dining room, she found him with his head in his hands. As he looked up, she understood suddenly. He had not taken it as lightly as he had pretended. Now his expression changed quickly.

"The coffee smells good," he said heartily. "Cook tells me the eggs are fresh this morning."

Marcia sat down and smiled at him tenderly.

"Why pretend, Father? You're worried."

Sometimes within the next week Mead, who manages Henry Armstrong, must decide which he would rather do—hurt his fighter by half-straining him so he can make 140 pounds for a fight with Lew Jenkins, or hurt his own wallet by calling off the fight and forfeiting the $2,500 he put up with the New York boxing commission to guarantee Armstrong's appearance at the stipulated weight.

Those close to Mead—and that means nearly everybody in the same block, because he is that big—report that Eddie is suffering the age old tortures of a man torn between two loves. He looks at thin, drawn Armstrong, whose natural weight is close to 150 pounds, and almost bursts into tears. He then looks at his thin, drawn wallet, whose normal weight is around ten grand—and DOES burst into tears.

All in all, it is a pathetic situation. If Mead feeds Armstrong, Armstrong can't fight. And if Armstrong can't fight, Mead can't feed himself. It is the most vicious circle since the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, in which you will recall Dempsey was vicious and Tunney circled.

There being such a beautiful brotherhood among fight managers, it was only natural that Mead sought advice in his dilemma from Hymie Caplin, the kindly, generous and philanthropic manager of Lew Jenkins. Over a beer, which a third party paid for, the understanding Caplin, and the misunderstood Mead talked over the problem.

Mead, in an offer of a compromise, suggested that Armstrong's welterweight title be placed on the line in the fight, and that his man be allowed to come in at the welter weight of 147 pounds.

Caplin snorted graciously and, coughing his refusal in the language of diplomacy, said:

"We don't want no part of the welter weight title. To fight for the welter championship we would have to give up our lightweight title, because the new commission ruling says a champion to fight for a title in another class, has to first give up the championship he owns. We ain't giving up something we got for something we got to gamble for."

They parted on these friendly, ungrammatical terms, because each knew that the other was not going to jeopardize a big slice of a possible $150,000 gate for a paltry $2,500 guarantee. Under the terms of the contract drawn up for the fight, which is scheduled for the Polo Grounds July 17, Jenkins gets 27½ per cent and Armstrong the same. Just what "cut" the managers get out of the fighters' "cuts" is not known, but you can rest assured it is little more than normal usury rates.

The fight will go on, even if Caplin has to go up to Armstrong's training camp and help Mead starve the welter champion to within an inch of his life. Before Mead will see the fight called off he will put Armstrong on a diet that wouldn't satisfy the hunger of a self-respecting shadow. Mead will allow Henry three gulps of fresh air for breakfast, a pre-digested feather for lunch, and plate of nothing, topped off with a big helping of zeros a la mode, for dinner.

Armstrong may not be willing when he steps into the ring, but he'll be weak.

FIVE MILE TERRACE

Among the crowds at Reno on July Fourth were these Terrace residents: Mr. and Mrs. Al Baker and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lumley and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Beaman of Stockton, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leavitt, and sons, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Mance Vaughn of Placerville.

Another group celebrated the Fourth away from crowded highways and throngs of people by driving to Happy Valley for a picnic. In this party were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parkhurst and son Carl, Mrs. Emily MacFarland with Rance and Bruce from the Terrace, Mrs. Joe De Warren of Missouri Flat, Ernie Blakeley of Placerville, Bill Fisher of El Dorado and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones and Owen Chapman of Diamond Springs.

Miss Dorothy Buck of Sacramento is vacationing at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Lena Vanyle. Ellen Nills of Modesto, cousin of Mrs. Wm. Lumley, and two boy friends, spent Saturday night at the Lumleys.

Spending the four-day holiday at the Lumley home were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Balcom of Stockton. They had planned to accompany the Lumleys on their trip to Reno on the Fourth but arrived too late.

Little Barbara Williams celebrated her first birthday on July 9. Juanita Williams injured her foot Monday by stepping on a nail while playing in the yard. She was taken at once to the Placerville Sanatorium for treatment and returned to her home.

The Gordon Woodbridge family left Wednesday afternoon for Hope Valley where they made camp and planned to spend the four-day holiday. However, according to Mrs. Woodbridge the mosquitoes and deer flies were so numerous and insistent that the party moved to the "Y" where they spent the last two days with Mrs. Woodbridge's sister, Mrs. Joe Tonzi.

Mrs. Ralph Pitman of San Francisco, who with her daughter, Jean, and their guest, Nadine Arnon, spent the past two days with Mrs. Pitman's mother, Mrs. Celia Engle and her sister, Mrs. Todd, left Friday for their home. On Wednesday evening they visited the Joe Millers and surprised Mr. Miller with a shower of birthday gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Beauchamp and son of Longview, Washington, who have been visiting Mrs. Beauchamp's mother, Mrs. Linda J. Miller, left Friday for their home in the north. This was Mrs. Miller's first visit with her daughter in eight years and they enjoyed a very busy week. On Monday a trip was made to Coloma to visit Marshall's

LOTUS NOTES

The Fourth of July was quietly observed in our town, most everyone staying home as there were no big doings going on in the county to take them away from their homes.

Mrs. Verna Brame drove over to Lotus last Monday evening from her Placerville home and returned with one of her lady friends here and on Tuesday morning both ladies took a ride over to Carson City and Virginia City sight-seeing, returning home late in the evening. Both ladies had a good time and did much enjoy the trip.

Alex Leonardi and Joe Hansen are putting on a new shingle roof on their dwelling near here, getting ready for the winter. The days the past week have been very warm for laying shingles but the boys stayed by their work.

Luneman Brothers with their nice bunch of cattle came to our town Saturday evening, put them in the Archie Lawyer corral for the night and early Sunday morning started out for their mountain range at Meek's Bay where they will remain for the summer months.

One of our first candidates, Mrs. Jessie Madden, seeking the state senate office was in town on Tuesday last. She was accompanied by her husband, Homer Madden, prominent pear grower in the Fruit Ridge district, and Vic Pincoke.

Thos. Houck and wife and Mrs. Florence Hines drove over to Reno last Wednesday and spent the 4th in the "biggest little city in the world," returning home late in the evening of the 4th.

Clyde Thayer and wife who spent a week visiting with relatives and friends at Lompoc returned home on Tuesday driving a distance of 444 miles.

Earl Fogal, his wife and two sons, came up from their Fresno home the past week and spent a few days visiting at the Ray home with his sister, Mrs. Margaret Pay here. Mr. Fogal is city superintendent in Fresno and had to return back to his duties sooner than he expected. After their departure one of their sons, Wesley Pay, Jr., came up from the bay city to spend the Fourth with his pa and ma, and is still with us and will perhaps remain for some time.

Chester Vaughn and wife who have been living in the house of Dudley Stevenson for the past six months have moved into the cottage of Martin Grother and wife near the main street in the town of W. V. Jahant of Acampo, San Joaquin county, is the new president of the California Fruit Exchange.

Lotus. Martin and wife have moved down to their son-in-law, Dan Bassi's, where the couple will remain for some time.

The weather the past week has been quite warm. Last Friday was the warmest day of the week, the mercury being up to 100 degrees from noon until 6 p. m. The Fourth of July was also hot, 104 degrees. We have followed Herschel's weather table for the past 50 years and find it about as correct as any and we will predict that we will have some rains before the end of next month. Now see how much we miss it.

Eddie Cheske and wife of Berkeley came to Lotus Saturday evening from Reno where they had been to attend a meeting of their Richmond friends. Eddie and wife spent the night and Sunday with his parents and towards evening they returned to their home. Eddie's mother went down to Berkeley with her son where she will spend the week visiting.

Mrs. Herbert Herzog has returned to her home in Lotus after having spent ten days at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Leo Brown in Placerville.

Mr. Elberhart was in Lotus Sunday visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Will Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bacchi left Thursday morning for a trip to Oregon. They expect to be gone five or six days.

We learn at this writing that our neighbor, Herbert Wagner, is on the mend.

Mrs. Homer Metcalfe was a Lotus caller Thursday morning of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rice, Chas. Hines, Mrs. Joe Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reaside all enjoyed the card party given by the Rebekahs on Tuesday evening.

A. H. Peterson was up to spend the week-end at his ranch here. Mrs. Elsa Creighton is a guest of Mrs. Peterson at the present time.

Mrs. George Oyvedo, Mrs. Thad Whelan and Mrs. G. Dillan were callers at the Reaside home Sunday forenoon.

Chas. Rice and Chas. Hines left on Sunday for a short trip to San Francisco.

Dodge Truck Aides Military Planes

Painted in camouflage colors, this military plane built by Lockheed Aircraft in Burbank, Calif., was nearing completion when he above photo was taken. With the military plane is a Dodge 1-ton screen canopy truck, one of Lockheed's fleet of dependable Dodges, used by a service crew for a final check-up of the planes before they leave the hangar at Union Air Terminal.

64 PER CENT OF STATE'S 139 TRAFFIC DEATHS AND INJURIES ARE TRACED TO DRIVER'S INABILITY TO STOP HIS CAR

SACRAMENTO—Because 24,316 motorists could not stop their vehicles in time while traveling on streets and roads of California during 1939, 64 per cent of the year's deaths and injuries resulted, Joe Mattson, Director of Motor Vehicles announced today. Out of a total of 38,242 traffic accidents reported to the Department of Motor Vehicles during the year, it is now known that 4,990 or 13 per cent were directly caused by "excessive speed."

In this group alone there were 573 fatal accidents which accounted for 22 per cent of all the traffic deaths. In attempting to pass another vehicle without taking adequate care, 2525 other motorists found themselves in "tight positions" from which they could not get extricated in time, and in acts of "cutting in" or attempting to drop behind the vehicle they were overtaking, they became involved in crashes.

Chiefly because they were unable to stop their vehicles in time, another group of drivers totaling 2,005 attempted the maneuver of cutting across the wrong side of the road to avoid crashing the car ahead or meeting a car in the opposite lane of traffic head-on. Many of this group suddenly discovered themselves in a ditch with their cars turned over, or failed to avoid the head-on collision, or being sideswiped by cars proceeding in the opposite lane of traffic.

Also, chiefly because they were unable to stop in time, 7353 drivers in an attempt to get out of "emergency situations" violated various right of way rules and met with serious accidents. In this group alone, there were 320 fatal accidents, accounting for more than 12 per cent of the traffic deaths for the year.

That failure to stop at an arterial may result in serious consequences is emphasized by the fact that the traffic casualties of last year showed that 1141 drivers were wrecked for this reason alone, and this group contributed about 3 per cent of the death toll. The habit of some motorists following the vehicle ahead "too closely" so that they were unable to stop in time brought death and injury to 1648 other persons. Closely associated with this latter group were 1010 who, suddenly, coming upon the scene of a traffic accident and being unable to stop, did, themselves, have an accident. There were 3644 cases reported in which it is claimed for one reason or another the vehicle got out of control. Drivers were unable to stop these cars in every instance and in 294 cases fatalities resulted.

During the last 10 years, the horse-power rating of automobiles has increased nearly 60 per cent, and normally, there is no restriction whatever to this power increasing the top speed "ceiling" of the automobile. The ease with which high velocity can be obtained in the modern automobile tends to lull the average driver into a false confidence that he is able to control the stopping of his car as easily as he can increase its velocity. However, too many drivers discover to their sorrow that when they are actually confronted by an emergency situation it is physically impossible for them to stop in time to avoid an accident.

The average rate of travel of all modern passenger cars on our highways, has advanced greatly in recent years. Back in 1928-29 fatality ac-coast, an official communique asserted today.

Admitting the loss of one Italian destroyer and one submarine, the communique asserted that the British had certainly lost one cruiser and possibly had lost one battleship.

BRITISH CLAIMS

LONDON (UP)—The admiralty announced today that a great naval battle in the Mediterranean Sea has developed into a chase of Italian naval forces by the British.

The fight, an admiralty communique said, had resulted in no casualties among British ships.

"In absence of information to the contrary it must be assumed that the (Italian) naval forces—at least one heavy unit of which suffered damage—gained the shelter of their (the Italian) shore defenses," the communique said.

REPUBLIC ENDS

GRENOBLE, (UP)—The French parliament met at Vichy today for its last session. After approval of a resolution granting full powers to aged Marshal Henri Philippe Petain the parliament's life and that of the third French republic will end.

In its place, Petain and his advisors will establish an authoritarian state on the Italian and Spanish models.

BALKAN PARLEY

BERLIN, (UP)—Adolf Hitler met with spokesmen for Italy and Hungary at Munich today and it was believed that plans were drafted for a "new order" in the Balkans.

There was no hint from authoritative sources on whether decisions have been made to establish the "new order" immediately or exactly what steps are contemplated.

GINGER ROGERS IS NOT ONLY unwelcome but embarrassed at this little party between Joel McCreary and alluring Carmen Morales. The conflict comes after a mounting series of rifts between the couple, "Primrose Path," at the Empire Theatre tonight and Thursday.

SHE'S A CHANGED WOMAN: GINGER ROGERS IN "PRIMROSE PATH"

Ginger Rogers, to whom each new role is "the most interesting I've ever done," really sets a mark to shoot at in her portrayal in RKO Radio's "Primrose Path," opening a two-day showing Wednesday at the Empire.

For Ginger is de-glamorized with a capital "D". She plays the entire picture without make-up, clad in a wardrobe which cost only a sum total of $18.73, and with her golden blonde hair changed to a darker hue.

As Ellie May, the young illiterate daughter of a sorry family living in Shantytown, Ginger assumes a role far removed from previous characterizations.

She wears pigtail, she speaks English such as the king would banish from the land. She wears no make-up, yet reveals a Ginger Rogers as distinctly beautiful despite the handicaps the role demands.

The darkening of her hair, formerly gloriously gold-brilliant, was her own idea, to provide added characterization to the portrayal.

Thus "Primrose Path" presents a new Ginger Rogers, without song and dance, without beautiful clothes and without cosmetic allure, a characterization which few feminine stars of the screen could dare accept.
